Vol: XLV Number XI

October 2007

PRESIDENT Message
Lcdr. Peter C. Meyer

Fall is approaching and summer seemed to go by quickly. We welcome the new members aboard our Moaa Houston Area.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. Hester and Tervay for the passing of their husbands. Both men will be truly a lost to MOAA and it's membership. Both men were instrumental getting keeping our chapter organized. Col. Hester played a key role on the Board of Directors and keeping us in line.

Our luncheon was another success and everyone enjoyed the food and company. Our speaker did an outstanding job informing us about the Endowment fund. He outlined the ROTC programs in the area and how the universities work together. Not forgetting the Junior ROTC program for the High Schools. Ed Hale has done a lot of work with these young men and women. We are going to help Ed Hale expand the program to other High Schools.

I look forward to meeting everyone at our next luncheon and guest speaker. Please invite other to join us.

Remember this coming month we will be electing new Officers and Appointing others to serve on the board. The only qualification is to be a member of MOAA or MOWA. I encourage anyone interested please contact us.

Maj. Martin
Harris,
Treasurer

Our Operating capital exceeds the expenses for the month of September.

Our condolences to Marilyn Ellzey for the loss of her husband.

See you at the luncheon on October 18th

The upcoming elections are fast approaching. We encourage all interested parties to come to the board meeting or contact me if you want to be a board member. It is challenging sometimes but very rewarding. Come and join us to build a bigger and better MOAA HOUSTON AREA.

NEWS FROM NATIONAL

Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) - Show Me The Money

A question we frequently hear from older members is, "I've been paying into SBP for decades. The government has made a lot of money on me. Why can't I get some of that money back after all these years?"

Anyone who thinks the government is making money on SBP is way off-base. As shown in the chart below, the government currently pays out more than twice as much in SBP benefits to survivors than it collects in retiree premiums. And that difference will continue to grow, since we recently won a benefit increase for survivors age 62 and older.

For members retiring after 20 or more years of active duty, the government expects that the average retiree's lifetime SBP premiums will only cover about 60% of the average benefits that will be paid to the retiree's survivor.

That means three things:

Your SBP benefit is 40% subsidized by the government to help recognize the value of your service... (much different than the negative subsidy of civilian insurance, for which premiums must cover 100% of benefit costs, as well as company overhead, salaries, commissions, and profit).

Much like Social Security, every dollar you pay in SBP premiums goes toward paying part of the benefit for someone else's survivor, just as other retirees' premiums will help fund your survivor's benefits in the event of your death.

Any civilian insurance that provides "cash back" if you don't die is going to cost you a lot bigger premium per death benefit dollar (and we don't know of any civilian insurance that provides a fully inflation-protected annuity like SBP does).

House, Senate Lock Horns on Benefit Issues

The Senate first took up the FY2008 Defense Authorization Bill back in July, but action stalled until Gen. Petraeus delivered his report on Iraq last month.

It came back to the Senate floor in September. After two contentious weeks of debate, the Senate finally passed it by a vote of 92-3 on October 1 -- the first day of FY2008. But the fight for its enactment is far from over.

Next to come are critical negotiations between House and Senate leaders to iron out the thousands of differences between their respective versions of the bill. And there are many, many provisions that likely affect you and your family and friends.

You can help persuade Congress to do the right thing by military people by sending a MOAA suggested message to your legislators asking them to retain key issues in the final defense bill.
